

VOTING FOR PRESIDENT FOR THIRTY-THIRD TIME

Hughes, if Elected, Will Be Twenty-eighth Executive.

The American people are at the polls today to name a President for the thirty-third time.

If Wilson is re-elected he will still be the twenty-seventh President, while if Hughes gets the most votes he will be the twenty-eighth executive since Washington was chosen in 1789.

Washington set the two-term precedent, which but nine Presidents have succeeded in following. They were Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Lincoln, Cleveland, McKinley and Roosevelt. The last named was elected but once, although he served more time in the President's chair than Lincoln or McKinley, who were elected twice.

Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley were assassinated while in office. Two Presidents, Jackson and Roosevelt, were shot at, but escaped serious injury. A house painter named Richard Lawrence attempted to shoot Jackson in the Capitol in January, 1885, but the pistol missed.

Roosevelt was attacked by John Shrank in Milwaukee in October, 1912. The bullet lodged in the muscles of his chest before reaching a vital spot.

William Henry Harrison and Benjamin Harrison were both descendants of Pocahontas and John Rolfe.

The sixth President was the son of the second President, and the twenty-third President was the son of the ninth President.

Lincoln First to Wear Beard.

Lincoln was the first of the Chief Executives to wear a full beard and Grant was the first to serve in the same capacity with a mustache.

Two Presidents were signers of the Declaration of Independence. They were Adams and Jefferson. Two Presidents, Washington and Madison, signed the Constitution.

Virginia claims the honor of being the mother of Presidents, eight having come from within her borders. Ohio comes next with six. The Virginia Presidents were Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, W. H. Harrison, Tyler, Taylor and Wilson. Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Benjamin Harrison, McKinley and Taft were Ohioans by birth.

Cleveland was the only President married in the White House. Wives of Tyler and Benjamin Harrison died in the White House.

Twenty-one Presidents have fought in the different wars of the United States. Three Presidents, Monroe, Pierce and Hayes, were born on Friday. John Quincy Adams and Garfield were inaugurated on Friday and Tyler and Polk died on Friday. Lincoln was assassinated on Friday.

Euchanan was the only President who served a full term as a bachelor.

William H. Harrison was the father of the largest family, having ten children, six sons and four daughters.

William H. Harrison was the oldest when elected and Roosevelt the youngest.

COAL FAMINE RELIEF FOR DISTRICT COMING

The superintendent of transportation of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad held a conference yesterday with Chief Clerk Wilmett, of the Treasury Department, regarding the coal shortage in the department. He promised that as he had seven cars of coal in sight, the situation would be speedily remedied.

"I think that we will weather the present crisis, but we shall have to work on a close margin," said Mr. Wilmett. "There is about a three days' supply at the Bureau of Engraving, and the other departments all have a temporary supply."

The railroads have given assurance that they will hasten all shipments from the mines, and they believe that their daily shipments will prove sufficient for the needs of the government buildings.

LECTURES ON INJUSTICE.

L. W. Rogers Discusses Inequalities of Life.

Can the wretched inequalities of life be harmonized with the belief that divine justice rules the world? That was the problem that L. W. Rogers, national lecturer for the Theosophical Society, attempted to solve last night before an audience at the Universalist Church.

He declared that neither the philosophy of the scientific materialist nor the popular belief that the soul is created at birth could explain away the apparent injustices of life.

Even if everybody should reach a final condition of bliss called Heaven, he said, that would not make it just that one born in a palace and another in a hut, that one has health and fortune and friends, while the other falls to secure the successes and joys of physical life, no matter how hard he strives.
